

2009 IRC/Energy Code Update

CHANGES ARE HERE! GET READY TO COMPLY!

Learn the significant changes from the last edition to the current edition (2009) of the International Residential Code (IRC) particularly: carbon monoxide alarms, wall bracing requirements, stairway and handrail modification and much more!

This class will also include the recently adopted changes to the Washington Energy Code, such as: additional energy efficiency requirements, increased building envelope stringency, duct placement and air leakage testing and much more!

These changes take effect July 1st, so don't miss your chance to take advantage of this great class at a remarkable price. BIAW has once again partnered with Washington Association of Building Officials (WABO) to make the 2009 IRC Code book available for purchase at a reduced price to class attendees.
